MAIL CARRIERS' ALLOWANCES.

An Effort To Prevent Lawyers From Washington, D. C., December 18.—Representative Auken of Michigan proposes urging a vigorous warfare against cer-tain lawyers of Washington who are charging 25 per cent. commission on the sums allowed mail-carriers for extra time. Congress referred these claims for overtime to the Court of Claims, and the court is now making many allowances of claims. The amounts are small, but they go to many persons, and in the aggregate they are very large.

After the court allows the claim it is sent to Congress, to be included in the postoffice appropriation bill. When this bill comes up Mr. Auken intends attacking the lawyers' fees in it. He says that attorneys have sent out circulars representing the difficulties of collecting the extras. Many of the mail clerks have thus been induced to sign contracts and powers of attorney, by which the lawyers will get 25 per cent. of their claim. Mr. Auken declares that any such charge is extortion, and he will endeavor to have the appropriation so deavor to have the appropriation so framed that the 25 per cent, fee will be cut off.

ONCE WORTH MILLIONS, HE IS NOW VERY POOR.

He Was the Napoleon of Cigarette Manufacturers - He Has Suffered Many Reverses-An Old Wound Breaks Out Again.

New York, December 18 .- The Herald says: Count Joseph de Susini, once known as the Napoleon of cigarette manufacturers, is dying, penniless, in humble apartments at No. 148 West Tenth street. He is seventy-six years old. He was once worth $10,000,000, and well known in many countries, and the circumstances under which he now awaits death will surprise the old Spanish residents of this city, and many Americans who were his friends when the old man was an active factor in the affairs of Cuba and Spain. He has many medals to testify to the honors he has received at the hands of foreign monarchs, and was appointed a Noble Guard and Count of the Apostolic Palace by the late Pope Pius IX, in recognition of his benevolence. Unfortunate ventures years ago made sad inroads on the Count's fortune, and in recent years he has turned his attention to the introduction of American inventions into Cuba, with ill financial success.

De Susini's life reads like a romance The primary cause of his illness is a wound in his leg, received in a duel when he was twenty years old. The ball fired by his antagonist, in Havana, struck a tree, and glancing, lodged in his leg, but did not make a wound that give him the slightest trouble until six months ago. bronchitis, with which De Susini was seized, grew into pneumonia, and the old gentleman has grown steadily worse, antil his physician, a week ago, gave him only twenty-four hours to live.

He has been unconscious for three days, and his son. Justus, and the latter's wife, who live with him, have been expecting his death every day. He was unconsclous and very weak when I called at the house yesterday. Once a Famous Figure.

Count de Susini was for many years a famous figure in Cuba, until the Cuban revolution swept away about the last of his once-large fortune. He inherits his title from ancestors who formed one of the noble families on the island of Cor-

He was the founder of the famous cigarette factory, "La Honradez," where he manufactured at one time six millions of to more than 5,000 persons. He introduced n Havana the first street car, electric light, lithographic machinery, steam fire engine and many other modern inventions. He organized out of his own pocket a splendid firemen corps, which, under his direction and at his own expense, rendered for many years im portant gratuitous services to the inhabitants of Havana, whose Common Council granted him the honor of using the official coat-of-arms of the city. During his prosperity he yearly fed and educated fifty orphans, and printed gratis in his establishment all the books, etc., needed by the charity institutions of Havana. He has been awarded many first-class gold medals in several international exhibitions, and was appointed Grand Cross and Knight of thirty-five European royal orders. The Spanish Congress bestowed upon him two of the highest honors in Spain, those of "Well Deserving of the Country" and the Grand Cross of the Order of Benevolence. He was elected mayor of Havana and a Representative to the Spanish Congress about thirty years ago. portant gratuitous services to the inhab-

It was just previous to the Franco-German war that the Count met with his first serious reverse, which opened for him the road to poverty. He adopted the preliminary steps to secure an exclusive concession from Spain to manufacture cigarettes, and, in view of his prospects of success, went to the Rothschilds and other French bankers for funds to estab lish his plant. They agreed to advance capital if he could secure the concession, and De Susini succeeded, depositing $400,000 as a guarantee that he would begin

War Spoiled His Scheme.

The war between France and Ger-many broke out just at this time, and the Paris bankers withdrew their funds from his enterprise. The Count had al-ready established factories in Seville and Madrid, and these had to be abandoned together with his guarantee and the oney he invested before he had finally got the coveted franchise. He was obliged to mortgage his Cuban property to pay his debts. A similar concession he had from the French government fell through under almost similar circum-

Then followed the Cuban revolution, and the rest of De Susin's once handsome property depreciated in value, and was finally nearly dissipated. He lived in Paris for many years, and came here in Paris for many years, and came here with his son Justus in 1882, with only a remnant of his former wealth.

What remained of this has since then disappeared in several unfortunate ventures. He tried the introduction of American inventions into Cuba, and also opened one or two cigarette manufactories in this country in the last few years, but could not make a success of any of the enterprises. Since he was taken ill, a few months ago, his son has supported him.

few moments ago, his son has supported him.

Justus has devoted himself to the work of a translator and writer in recent years. Besides his father he is the only one of the family.

He said yesterday: "I am sorry to have anything printed about my father's sad condition, but it is true. We had much once, and we have nothing now. He is absolutely penniless. When he had money my father fairly threw it away in his benevolence and among his friends. He knew many famous persons all over the world when he had his property, but he has been very much reserved for many years.

"I ran across a magazine the other day containing an account, by the great statesman Seward, your Secretary of State, telling of his visit to my father's big factory, in Havana. Seward and my father were friends. It is unfortunate to have our acquainances know we are poor."

MARRIED THE WRONG GIRL.

Now She Wants a Divorce-A Recent

Kentucky "Romance." Maysville, Ky., December 18.—A divorce suit has been begun at Mt. Olivet, Rob-ertson county, that has caused considerable of a sensation. The plaintiff is Mrs. Edna Woodward, age eighteen, and the defendant is Thomas Woodward, age twenty-two. The statements set forth tell of a romantic marriage. The plaintiff says that one night last June Thomas Woodward had arranged to elope with an elder sister of hers, but as the time irew near her sister, Miss Emma Ranoncluded that she did not care to on the eve of backing out. Nothing was more natural than that she should confide in her sister, and tell her all about it. Upon hearing the story, Miss Edna, who had considerable romance in her na-ture, told her sister that she would take ture, told her sister that she would take her place and marry young Woodward, saying that she was the same size as her sister, and they looked a great deal alike, and in the night Woodward would be easily fooled, as he could not see very well any way. At first the older sister objected, but finally yielded, as she saw an easy way out of the affair herself.

On arriving at Miss Rankins's house, the younger Miss Rankins lost no time in getting into the buggy, and in his excitement and hurry to escape the parental boot, he noticed nothing wrong, but proceeded to Carlisle, arriving there before daylight. He soon had the knot tied, and was on his way home before he discovered his mistake. He did not raise a racket when he found his mistake, but

By the time he got into the place again, however, the fire had extended and was spreading rapidly, the walls and floor saturated with oil, offering ready food to the hungry flames.

Lloyd saw at once that alone he could never put out the fire. At the same time the thought of the forty men in the mine flashed through his mind. He realized their danger. If the engine-house should be burned down, it would be impossible to hoist the men up the shaft. If the engines stopped, the fan would stop, too, and the life-sustaining current of air which the powerful fan was now forcing into the mine, would be cut off. He sounded the warning whistle three times. The men were working some distance from the bottom of the shaft. Would they hear the whistle? He waited, but there was no response. NOVELIST STEVENSON'S DEATH. It Occurred Two Weeks Ago-Buried On the Mountain.

Auckland, New Zealand, December 18 -Further advices have reached here from Apia, Samoa, giving details of the death of the distinguished novelist, Robert Louis Stevenson. It is stated that Mr. Stevenson died on the evening of December 3. He was talking with his wife, seemingly as well as usual, when he suddenly said to her: "I have a strange pain in my head." Afterward he strange pain in my head." Afterward he fell back insensible. Everything possible was done to restore him to consciousness, without success, and within two hours of the seizure he died. The cause of death was sudden paralysis of the brain, accompanied by collapse of the lungs. Mrs. Stevenson and all her relatives were present at the closing scene. The funeral took place on the 4th. The grave was dug on the summit of Palahill, which stands on Mr. Stevenson's estate. The coffin was carried up the mountain with great difficulty by the faithful Samoan servants, who so dearly loved their white employer. To allow for the passage of the coffin and its bearers, it was necessary to cut a track through the forest which covers the whole slope of the hill. An obelisk will be greated over the grave, and this will form a prominent landmark from the sea. It is stated that Mr. Stevenson had suffered from brain exhaustion. He was haunted by a fear that his popularity as a writer was waning. He left three unfinished works.

Bloody Conflict Between Strikers

ng paper dispatch from Uniontown ells of a fight between the coke strikers and the non-union men. The fight occurred near the valley works. The union men have driven their opponents from the public places repeatedly, and they decided to retaliate. The non-union men decided to retaliate. The non-union men armed themselves with revolvers, and congregated at the store, half of their force being placed out of sight. When the strikers appeared they made threats against the men and attempted to drive them away, and a fight ensued. The men in hiding appeared on the scene, and the strikers, finding themselves cutnumbered, started to run.

At the least 200 shots were fired, and it is known that one man, a striker, was shot in the leg, and his injury may prove fatal. He became exhausted from the loss of blood, and his friends carried him into Boyd's bar, two miles from where the fight started, and from there he was taken to his home. It is said that a number of others were more or less hurt, but how many is unknown.

action during this convention did much to defeat him. He was ill when he came here, and his rulings have been noticeably arbitrary and erratic. More than once he lost his temper, and occasionally he reversed his own rulings. The action of Mr. Gompers in the A. R. U. strike also undoubtedly had a little effect. It was said by friends of the strikers that had Mr. Gompers supported Debs the strike would have been won. Others claim that, on deciding not to order a general strike, Gompers simply recog-nized the principle of the perfect independence of the affiliated unions. His po-sition has been overwhelmingly indorsed by this convention, so that it is not probable that it was a large factor in his defeat for re-election.

John McBride, the new president of the Federation, has just turned his fortieth to the front as a leader among men of his craft. In 1882 he was elected president of the Ohio Miners' Association and con tinued at the head of that organization for seven years. The memorable strike in the Hocking valley in 1884 was a severe test of his resources and demonstrated in the Hocking valley in 1884 was a severe test of his resources and demonstrated his exceptional ability as a labor leader. In 1884-5 he represented Stark county in the Ohio Legislature and secured the enactment of a number of laws in the interests of labor. In 1886 he was nominated on the Democratic ticket for Secretary of State, but was defeated. In 1887 he succeeded in bringing the operators and miners together under an interestate agreement for the maintenance of wages, which was abrogated by the indian and Illinois operators in 1889, and was revived as a result of the great strike last spring.

In 1890 McBride retired from active leadership among the miners when the Miners' Progressive Union and N. T. A., 125, Knights of Labor, were consolidated under the title of the United Mine Workers of America. He served as State Labor Commissioner of Ohio under Governor Campbell for two years, and in 1893 was elected president of the United Mine Workers, which position he has since held. Last spring he organized and conducted the greatest strike in the history of the country, in which upward of 150,000 held. Last spring he organized and conducted the greatest strike in the history of the country, in which upward of 150,000 miners were involved. He was instrumental in the organization of the American Federation of Labor, and presided at the first meeting in Columbus, O., in December, 1886, when he was elected president, but declined to accept.

In regard to the work of the convention, President Gompers said: "I think the general work of the convention is highly satisfactory, and I regard the outlook as equally so. The determination of the Federation to direct their efforts to securing an eight-hour day in 1896 will have a good effect. Personally, I feel relieved at the election of a man to succeed me in the arduous duties of the presidency. John McBride is a good man, and while he will no doubt meet with the usual obstacles of a new official the hearty co-operation that he will receive from myself and other retiring officers will tend to make his work as easy as possible. I ask, and shall continue to ask, every trade unionist—every person who has been and is still my personal or official friend—to give Mr. McBride their undivided and unqualified support." How It Is Regarded Here-Facts
About the Federation.

About the Federation.

The news that the American Federation of Labor had decided to remove its head quarters to this city has been received with something like concern by resident politicians and by some of the employers of labor. A Republican who is a large employer of labor said that the coming of the Federation meant that there would be a revival of labor union interests here, and that, in his opinion, it might have some influence upon Republican national polities. He thought Mr. Harrison would be the next candidate for the presidency, and he suspected that the Federation with headquarters here, might keep closs watch upon the party from a labor standapoint. McBride, the new president of the Federation, is a Democrat.

It Plenses Organized Labor.

It Pleases Organized Labor. The order of its national convention remove the headquarters of the Fed-tion to this city pleases very much leaders and friends of organized in Union, of whom John McGregor, one of the six Representatives of Marion county in the next Legislature, is president, already has general headquarters in Indianapolis, as does the International Typographical Union. Of these strong organizations, the latter is allied with the Federation; the former is not. The stone-masons have about 25,000 members in this country and Canada. The typographical is one of the strongest, most numerous and systematic organizations. Its influence in the Federation is great, but it is so compact and efficient that what labor leaders predict will befall the Federation will not disturb the printers. Other strong organizations in the Federation is the Federation will not disturb the printers.

it is so compact and efficient that what labor leaders predict will befall the Federation will not disturb the printers. Other strong organizations in the Federation are those of the carpenters, miners and cigar-makers.

President Gompers, who has been at the head of the general organization since it began its work, is a cigar-maker, and the news of his defeat for re-election at the Denver convention by John Mc-Bride, of the miners, was received here with great surprise. The Indianapolis Federationists are friends of Gompers, who they say is a leader of conservative methods and purposes. Some of them said to-day it is the beginning of the end. While they regard McBride as one of the ablest of labor leaders and much less radical than many others, they say the influence that elected him president of the Federation was socialistic. "The organization," said one, "can stand prosperity, but not adversity."

The Federation began to acquire great influence among workingmen six or seven years ago. "Its plans," said a labor leader, "were to organize everything on trade lines. The Knights of Labor had a different system, its assemblies including men of all trades, although it had many spearate trade assemblies including men of all trades, although it had many spearate trade assemblies. It was dissatisfaction with the system of the Knights that was the ostensible cause of the Federation coming into prominence. The real reason, though, was jealousy of leaders."

Another friend of organized labor did not think the system of federation equal in strength and efficiency to that of the American Railway Union. The latter, he said observed a direct connection between subordinate lodges and the general organizations, while in the Federation being only allied, while other bodies had their charter direct from it. A weakness, it is argued by some, that has kept several strong organizations from the Federation is the fact that the latter pecognizes no color line. The machinists, notably, would not affiliate with it on that account.

Th

The Federation had at one time 1,000,000 members, it is stated, but on account of factional questions and the hard times this number has been considerably dimin-ished. Individuals have dropped out, John McBride, the new president of the Federation, has just turned his fortieth year. He was born and reared in the mining region of northwestern Ohio. He secured a common school education before he entered the mines, and at eighteen he became secretary of the local lodge of the Miners' and Miro Laborers' Benevolent Association. Shortly afterward he was elected secretary of the Tuscarawas Valley Miners' Association and at once came alexance.

MRS. GOUGAR APPEALS TO THE URTS FOR THE BALLOT.

The Last of the Archer Gang hool House Burned-Shot By Foliceman—A Business Failure—Items.

al to The Indianapolis News. Lafayette, Ind., December 18.-Late last ening the promised suit of Mrs. Helen Gaugar to test the legal power of a tion to refuse women the ight of ballot was filed in the court of idge Everett. The document is quite ng. The facts out of which the suit wa are that on the last general elecon day Mrs. Gougar, in company with her husband, John D. Gougar, called at nct in the Fifth ward of this city ed the privilege of voting, and deded a ticket. The president of the M. H. Timberlake, declined to ish Mrs. Gougar with a State, county ind township ballot, as demanded, upon he ground that she was a woman, and law only recognized males as voters. Gougar offered to make affidavit to hip, but the board declined to this, and she left the polling booth (Mr. Gougar, of course, being given the required ballots for himself.) The whole proceeding was to form the basis for the iit, which was filed last night.

Mrs. Gougar, as president of the Voman's Suffrage Association of Inlana, has long entertained the belief that there was no constitutional obstacle in the way of women voting. She has en reading up extensively on the sub ided with learned at fect, has corresponded with learned at-torneys throughout the country, and has reached the conclusion that the constition does not prohibit women exerciselective franchise, and she has n. For several years he has lived unty, near the Martin county line. Several years ago he figured in on st sensational episodes in the riminal history of Indiana. At the time entloned the Archers were a wellwn gang of desperate men, living in Martin county, not far from Shoals Sam Bunch and Lynch were members of clique. Bunch and "Little Mart" Archer, together with Sam Marley, had a deal in logs, in which Archer claimed to have been worsted, and the quarre endered a feud which resulted in Archer being shot to death by unknown o Bunch and Marley, but Marley esped their vengeance by fleeing to the er, and was conveyed to a cave about three miles up Lost river, and he was deliberately shot to death by Phomas, Samuel, John and Martin Archer, while Lynch stood by an intersted spectator. The disappearance of Bunch caused great excitement in Marin county, and fearing that his body night be discovered, the Archers re-lurned to the cave and saturated the renains with oil, after which they applied match. The body was cremated. In time the excitement over Bunch's earance quieted down, and the ineident was well-nigh forgotten. It would have entirely died away, but John Archer concluded to desert his wife and lope with another woman, and to revenge herself, the wife told the story o Bunch's assassination. The Archers. with the exception of Sam, were arrested ced in jail at Shoals. Lynch cor roborated the evidence of Mrs. Archer, and when the mob broke into the jail nched the Archers, his life was spared, the jail authorities conveying im to Daviess county for safe-keeping. Afterward he was prosecuted for perjury, and was sentenced to three years' imwhen first arrested that Bunch was still living. Sam Archer was traced to Fountain county and arrested, and he was legally executed at Shoals in July, 1886. He Declines To Accept the Board's Allowance In the Wimmer Cases.

Ex-Coroner Beck says he is going sue the county. Yesterday he called to see if the county commissioners were going to allow his bill of $56.10 in the Wimmer cases. He found that the commissioners had allowed something. He asked Deputy Auditor Hughes for the warrant. Mr. Hughes con it. warrant. Mr. Hughes got it.
"How much is it?" said the ex-coroner.
Mr. Hughes answered that it was $58.10.

"That's all right, then," said the cor-oner. The amount stated by Mr. Hughes was about $2 more than the coroner asked.
"Hold on," said Mr. Hughes, "I made a mistake. I took that figure for a five:

"Then I won't take it," said the ex-cor-oner. "I will sue the county for the full

WILLIAM A. PEELLE.

Mr. Peelle has been in public life since he was a young man. He was born in Wayne county in 1845. During the war he was in the commissary department at Nashville, Tenn. In 1875 he was appointed Deputy Secretary of State under John E. Neff. He served two terms under Neff, and was reappointed to the place by John G. Shanklin in 1879. In 1881 he was assistant clerk of the lower branch of the General Assembly. In 1883 he was appointed chief of the Bureau of Statistics by the Legislature, and he continued to hold the office until last month, when he was succeeded by S. J. Thompson, who was elected to the office last November. The wife of the dead man, Mrs. Margaret Fitzgibbon Peelle, was formerly State Librarian. exceedingly successful, and the mills at South Bend and Mishawaka were operated to their full capacity. The South Bend mill made rag and manilla wrapping papers and print papers, and a special feature was the manufacture of paper bags, of which the output was enormous. The Mishawaka mill has been devoted to the making of straw wrapping paper.

WILLIAM O. DEVAY.

His close application to business, as he was not of a strong constitution, de-veloped consumption, which was the cause of his death. Last winter he went veloped consumption, which was the cause of his death. Last winter he went to southern California for relief. He thought his health slightly improved, and, so be near his business, he removed from this city to South Bend last May, his family following in July.

He married in this city in 1874, Miss Mary Goshen, who with two sons, Pierre age eighteen, and Newton, age twelve, survive him. He leaves a fortune estimated at about $150,000, all of which he made in the paper business during his residence in this city.

The body will arrive at the Union station at 10.45 a. m., on Thursday, and from there will be escorted by the Scottish Rits Masons to Crown Hill cemetry. He was also a member of Mystic Tie Lodge, F. and A. M., of this city, and of Raper Commandery, Knights Templars. The officiating clergyman at the funeral will be the Rev. Joseph A. Milburn.

A screen ordinance was passed on its paratively small and isolated town. If the State University were in Indianapolis with the full sympathy of the indianapolis people, and with the attendance of Indianapolis students which it must receive, its professors and students enjoying the great advantages arising from living in a progressive and intellectual city, there is no reason why the institution should not at once take the lead among the Western State universities . . . In any movement of this kind, of urse, the vested rights of the people of Monroe county should not be forgotten, and something should be done, as far as may be, to satisfy these, because the county has always had the deepest interest in the university, and has been generous with help in times of difficulty. I, however, believe firmly that these vested rights should not stand in the way of what is for the best development of the State and of the university, which should be the greatest ele ment of progress in the State. Poles have stood there for years, but it appears that the company had never had any rights in a satisfactory legal form. The compary did not ask for exclusive privileges. The ordinance went to committee for examination. An ordinance was introduced providing that the railroad companies place electric lights at all their street crossings in the suburb. It was referred to the committee. The suburb will save $400 a year, or will be enabled to put the lights now at the crossings in other parts of the city. The Belt alone would be at the expense of $1,500 a year in case the ordinance passed and was held to be constitutional. J. C. Williams was appointed the fourth member of the fire department. The Ladies' Add Society of the Haughville Christian church was organized November 22, 1833, with a membership of cussing the play, and something in the miserable atmosphere and the dreariness of the night made the passengers appear to come closer together. People talked to each other about the play and the weather, extolling the one, con the other, without the formality of an introduction. Most of the them looked tolerably happy, in spite of the raw weather. Every seat was filled. At the farther end of the car stood a young boy, perhaps thirteen or een years old. His fe his trousers were soggy and he looked miserable. The conductor came through the car collecting fares. The boy was the last one. He said something to the conductor in a low tone. The conductor answered him in a low tone. Then the The Ladies Aid Society of the Haughville Christian church was organized November 22, 1833, with a membership of fourteen. According to the secretary's first annual report rendered at the meeting yesterday there has been an increase of nineteen in the membership, making' the total now thirty-three. The receipts during the year were $130.10, which were expended as follows: Pastor's salany, $44; church debt, $50; interest, $6.97; baptismal robe, $4.50; books, $2.50, and charity, $2. Mrs. T. Pollard is the president of the society and Mrs. M. Hyatt secretary. Then the boy's voice rose in protest, and the conductor's voice rose in anger. "If you can't pay your fare, get off en the car." It seems that the boy did not have the noney to pay his fare. The conversation in the car stopped, as the passen gers became interested in the conversation between the conductor and the boy. Presently the conductor reached up, pulled the bell rope and began to hustle the boy out of the car. In the corner sat a man.

"Hold on!" he said, "I'll pay his fare." Chicken thieves are reported to be abroad, and the wise are providing themselves with padlocks.

The juvenile population of Irvington is playing marbles for "keeps." For the past week the corners have been occupied noons and evenings by groups of boys who lose or add to their winnings with excited interest. "Hold on!" he said, "I'll pay his fare."
He did.
"What's the matter, sanny?" he said to the boy, who had begun to cry.
The boy's sobs seemed to make him speak louder than usual, so that every word he said in explanation was heard by all the people in the car. He sobbed and shivered, and through his sobs the passengers gathered his story. He said that he lived in North Indianapolis. His father had died about six months ago and he was left alone with his mother, to provide for two small brothers and three sisters. He told the man who had paid his fare that his youngest sister was ill and that he had walked to town to try and get a doctor. None would go out. He had been so anxious about his sister that he got on the car, thinking that maybe the conductor would let him ride fees for

been so anxious about his sister that he got on the car, thinking that maybe the conductor would let him ride free for once. Every once in a while his voice would sink low as he was telling the tale, and then the man who had paid his fare would pat him on the shoulder in a kindly way and urge him to speak out. When he got through with his pitiful tale the tears stood in the eyes of the kindly man, who turning to the passengers, said, "This seems to be a sad case, ladies and genitemen. A poor boy with kindly man, who turning to the passen-gers, said, "This seems to be a sad case, ladies and gentlemen. A poor boy with a sick sister and no money for food or medicine. Here we are spending $2 or $3 just for a little amusement at the thea-ter while this boy and others like him, are suffering for bread. It doesn't seem right. It doesn't, indeed." Taking the hat from the boy's head, he reached into his pocket and with Taking the hat from the boy's head, he reached into his pocket and with much ostentation he drew out a dollar, "I'm a poor man, myself," he said. "but I'll start her off with this."

He dropped the dollar into the hat and handed it to the man nearest him. Turning to the boy, he said: "Sit down, sonny. These people won't see you suffer." To the passengers he said: "Pass it around and let's make one family happy to-night."

it around and let's make one family happy to-night."

Most of the gentlemen were acting as escorts to women, and they were ashamed to let the hat go by. One or two of them dropped in quarters, but the majority dropped half-dollars into the hat, and one man put in a two-dollar bill. Even the conductor put in a dime. Quite a neat little sum was raised, and, as the money was poured into the boy's hands, his tears ceased, and he choked as he tried to thank the man who had made tried to thank the man who had tried to thank the man who had made the appeal for him.

All the passengers felt better, and when Twelfth street was reached and the bar started out toward Mapleton, they smiled to see the man take the boy by the hand and say, "You should have got on the other car, sonny, for North Indianapolis. You'll have to get off here and wait for another." The man and the boy got off together and the car proceeded on its way.

A man who stood at Twelfth and Illinois streets, in the shadow cast by the electric lamp, heard the man say: "That was a pretty good car. Let's see how much we got. Eight dollars and thirty cents. That's all right. I guess we can't catch another car coming out to-night. CALDWELL FOUND GUILTY Give me & and you keep the rest. I guess we'll go down town now and go to bed." COUNCIL PARLIAMENTARY LAW.

Differences of Opinion Concerning Reconsideration-Other Action.

At the Council meeting last night Mr. Shaffer introduced an ordinance to amend so as to allow persons to sweep sidewalk dirt into the gutters. It was moved to suspend the rules in order to pass the ordinance at once that the correction could be made before the ordinances now in the hands of the printer were put into type. The motion to suspend the rules passed, but on the final passage of the ordinance Mr. Koehring voted against it. As the ordinance to pass required a As the ordinance to pass required a unanimous vote it was thus defeated. A long talk followed as to who had the right to move a reconsideration. Some contended that Mr. Koehring, though he had voted in the negative, was the only one who could do so; others that he was the only one who could not do so. The question was settled by the introduction Mr. Rauh of a similar ordinance, sich was referred to the committee on

Among the college students who will be home for the holidays are Miss Florence Day and Miss Spann, from Smith; Mr. Edward Breman, from Notre Dame; Mr. Harry Campbell, Mr. Harry Cox, Mr. Walter Wheeler and Mr. Albert Kipp, from Purdue; Mr. Dwight Day and Mr. Clarence Coffin, from Andover.

Clarence Coffin, from Andover.

An attractive tea will be given to-morrow afternoon at the home of Mrs. George E. Townley, in Broadway, by the members of the first and second sections of the Free Kindergarten Society. On account of heavy street expenses, the treasury of the society has been almost depleted—a condition which makes necessary this second entertainment by the first and second sections. In the evening there will be music and dancing. Card rooms will be arranged for those who do not wish to dance. The heads of the first section are Mrs. Townley, Mrs. T. E. Griffith and Mrs. John W. Kern. At the head of the second section are Mrs. Herman Pink, Mrs. John H. Holliday and Mrs. Louis H. Levey. They will be assisted by the ladies of their sections, who number about two hundred.

VERDICT OF THE JURY IN THE FEDERAL COURT.

Buck" Harlan Changes His Plea Te Guilty and Coup Also Pleads Guilty-Motion For a New Trial For Caldwell.

D. K. Caldwell, the Frankfort lumber merchant, charged with having con-spired with "Buck" Harlan and Philip oup to manufacture and circulate counterfelt money, was found guilty to-day by the jury in the United States Court, The jury was out all night. There were two members who, on the first few ballots, expressed the belief that the accused man was insane when he ted the crime. When the verdict of the jury was read Caldwell dropped his head on the table before him, and pressed his hands to his temples. W. N. Harding, of counsel for defense, made a motion for an arrest of judgment and also a motion for a new trial. Judge Baker announced that he would hear arguments on the motion on Thursday of this week. In the meantime the convicted man is out the meantime the convicted man is out on bond.

After the proceedings in the Caldwell case, "Buck" Harian and Philip Coup, jointly indicted with Caldwell, were brought before the Court Harian withdrew his former plea of not guilty and pleaded guilty. Coup also pleaded guilty and pleaded guilty. Coup also pleaded guilty all this time Caldwell sat with his head on the table. Harian's wife sat in the court-room and sobbed. It was the third or fourth time she had seen her hushand entering the road to the peniteatiary. Coup's wife was not in court. She left the city several days ago. Harian and Coup were not sentenced, and will not be until after Caldwell's case is firally disposed of, as they are the principal witnesses for the Government in that case.

To-day's chapter is one of several in one of the most interesting counterfeiting cases that Thomas B. Carter, Treasury Agent' for this district, has ever brought before the Court. All the developments grew out of the arrest of Philip Coup for passing counterfeit money in this city. In a confession, Coup implicated Harian, and Harian, in turn, "squealed" on Caldwell, who, according to the evidence in the case, was the moneyed man in the combination.

The friends of Caldwell seem to be con-to the evidence in the case, was the mon-yed man in the combination. The friends of Caldwell seem to be con-vinced that he is insane, and his attor-neys say there is no doubt but what his mind is diseased. Renewed efforts will be made to have him confined in a hos-pital for the insane instead of in the penitentary.

For the rich and the poor I have glorious news:
I give away groceries with each pair of shoes.
For every dollar's worth of shoes that you buy,
You get a dime's worth of groceries, and that is no lie.

For a very small sum I will cover your feet, With shoes that are good and will alway, look neat. Good luck comes to all that enter my door; Both groceries and shoes I sell at my store. As unscrupulous parties are using my name, I warn the public to steer clear of their game, Two hundred and fifty West Washington Is the one correct place for buyers to meet.

THE CITY GOVERNMENT.

While it can not be said that there has been any proof of corruption in any of the city departments, the investigation has, we think, gone far enough to show that the interests of the city would be furthered by a few resignations. Many a man who is not corrupt is not fit for pubto office. In the present case it has been adantly proved that the city's business has been very loosely conducted, and many things have been revealed which at least suggest the thought that tractors are more than a match for the representatives of the people. We nd the mayor that incapacity The testimony taken yesterday developed a question of veracity between the gineer, Mr. Brown, and Mr. Stewnember of a firm which has been stone to the city. It will be ed that one Humphreys, who had been an agent for Stewart's firm, estified several days ago that Stewart had attempted to bribe City Engineer Stewart denied this yesterday. But when Mr. Brown was placed upon the stand, he said that when he was at me on one occasion Mr. Stewart ething about "not needing the 5 ents." After some conversation, Mr. Brown reached the conclusion that Stewart was offering him a "commission When asked whether he thought that this offer was meant as a bribe, he said: the last I felt that left him." Mr. Stewart also denied that he or his firm had paid any part of the engineer's expenses when he visited the quarry at Kokomo. Mr. Brown, on the other hand, admits that Mr Stewart's firm paid his railroad fare. There is the same conflict of testimony in regard to the relations between the Stewioner Fisher. It is not our purpose to try to reconcile it. It is not necessary to reconcile it. All that the mayor needs to know is that his that the interests of the city are in jeop-We believe that the investigation has gone - not as far as it should go - but far hough to confirm the fact that the public has lost confidence in the departments involved in the investigation. The lack of business methods in these branches of the city's service is painfully apparent. It is time that they were placed upon a busi-

ROBY AS IT IS. The story of the Roby race track, as told good name. There can be no doubt that do his duty so far as the law gives him power. But the law itself should be so clear and positive as to make the existble. And here is a great chance for the new Legislature. The signs are not wanting to indicate that the next General bly of Indiana will be one of the ost lobby-bedeviled public bodies that ever met in the State. The Roby lobby vill, of course, be on hand and very otive. It will be assisted by "prominent ns" from the northwestern part of the State, who look upon the track and nances as an industry employing so many hands and expending so much money in the neighborhood. This view of the case will, no doubt, be very popular in certain quarters and will be red with much vigor upon the members of the Legislature. We can not think, however, that it will have any weight. One or two communities may be thus corrupted, but it is inconceivable that the State of Indiana hould be led captive by such silly and is reasoning. No man, so far as we ow, from the lake to the river, is in favor of continuing this iniquity unless he is, in one way or another, directly or irdirectly, making money out of it. And there will be no man in the Legislature in favor of continuing it unless he too is taking money out of it. This may as stood now as later. The people of Indiana are, in the main, an honest, aw-abiding, God-fearing people. They are, therefore, against this Roby busis men who are engaged in it may talk as much as they please about the purity of their motives, the honesty of their enterprise and the great advantage which it is to the State; but every the knows that their track is a resort for the vile and deprayed of both sexes, and that the racing is merely for the purpose of gambling by pool selling. people can be blinded to the truth by ancial considerations. But unforturately this is no uncommon occurrence. We call attention to it, not for the purpose of harshly judging our fellow citizens, but of suggesting that their voice is entitled to no weight in the decision of this case. If they had been listened to, the prize-fighting industry would have een a prosperous one in Indiana to-day. They were not listened to, and the prizefighting gentry were driven from the State. So it will be in the present case. There is no need for a long campaign.

> THE STATE UNIVERSITY RE-MOVAL.

The State press is taking a commendabl nterest in the subject of the removal of the State University to Indianapolis. In another part of this issue of The News are the comments of a number of papers favorable and unfavorable to removal. Several of these are very interesting. The esteemed Lafayette Courier introduces a new line of reasoning into the discussion. We feel justified in saying mail, postage prepaid, the charge is 10 weekly or 15 yearly, payable in advance, a date when the subscription expires is ed on the wrapper of each paper.

Commen copies mailed free on application. The Courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the real purpose of this movement is to deprive Lafayette of Purdue and Terre Haute of the Normal control of the courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the real purpose of this movement is to deprive Lafayette of Purdue and Terre Haute of the Normal courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the real purpose of this movement is to deprive Lafayette of Purdue and Terre Haute of the Normal courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the real purpose of this movement is to deprive Lafayette of Purdue and Terre Haute of the Normal courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the real purpose of this movement is to deprive Lafayette of Purdue and Terre Haute of the Normal courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the real purpose of this movement is to deprive Lafayette of Purdue and Terre Haute of the Normal course is the courier in the courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the real purpose of the courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the real purpose of the courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the courier is unnecessarily alarmed over a rumor which has reached it to the effect that the courier is unnecessarily al School. The News for its part is utterly opposed to any such plan as this, and moreover, does not believe that any persons having authority to speak for the real friends of the movement are advoeating any such scheme.

Purdue as a school of technology has ndependent and distinct functions; it would be preposterous to try to combine the work which it does so admirably with that of the State University. It should not be necessary to remind the Courier of the differences between the two kinds of schools, or of the fact that its near neighbor is an institution so distinguished and so useful that any change in its present course or situation would be a public calamity. And of course the Courier knows that the State accepted the gift of John Purdue, on conditions that the institution should be called by his name and should remain forever on the hills at Lafayette. Purdue is a flourishing institution, famous all over the country for its efficiency. It could be hoped reasonably that the State University might be lifted to an equality

So far as the Normal School is concerned it could not be made co-ordinate with a university even if any one wanted to try the experiment. A normal school and a university have little or nothing in common. The one does not even prepare for the other. Their difference are irreconcilable unless the whole normal school idea were to be changed.

The Marion Chronicle is hardly more in error in saying that the institution ought to be abandoned than the Delphi Journal, which revives the old prejudice against the capital. The Journal thinks a better scheme would be to remove the university to Lafayette and combine it with Purdue, which indicates a lack of appreciation of the different offices of the two institutions. The Lebanon Patriot is on the right track when it urges against Bloomington its inaccessibility. The Patriot's concrete discussion of the subject, from the point of view of Boone county people, is foreible. It ought to appeal to the people of other parts of the State. It is interesting to note the action of the county teachers of Jasper county in passing resolutions favorable to the removal project. The action of such a body caris helpful, and it is to be hoped that it will continue. But the silly talk about the greed of Indianapolis, and her eagerness to acquire important institutions at the expense of other towns, ought to stop. The only question in this matter is as to the betterment of the university and the widening of its usefulness.

We reprint elsewhere some further extracts from the State press concerning the battleship subscription. We are glad to note this interest which the State in The News of yesterday, should be rewspapers are taking. The time when rewspapers are taking. The time when Indiana is to be credited as playing the who loves his State and is proud of her part which other States and cities play under similar circumstances, or to be 'racing' is simply a flimsy pretext discredited as falling to play such part, nsive gambling operations by is near at hand. It is something which, pool selling which are carried on at this indeed, the newspapers of the State us resort. Not merely are there should take up thoroughly and not lay pools sold on the racing at Roby but on down until it is done. We wish again the racing that takes place at the other to impress upon them that the thing to winter tracks in the country. We call do is for them to make a personal prethe attention of the authorities of the sentation of the matter to a score of tate to this matter. The Governor will the leading citizens of their various communities, going with them, if not leading them, with a contribution. If the newspapers of Indiana in the cities ence of such places forever hereafter im- and chief towns were to do this it would, we are sure, result in the sum being quickly subscribed.

We are compelled to note, in referring to the praiseworthy activity of the press, a mistake on the part of our esteemed contemporary, the Elwood Call, which says the public at large does not indorse the idea of The Indianapolis News of soliciting pennies from the school children of the State. We should like to ask our Elwood contemporary two things: First, who gave it authority to speak for the public at large? Second, who gave It authority to speak for The Indianapolis News? If the Elwood paper does not represent the public any better than it does The News, it is far off, indeed. We have to say again, as we have said before and as we said first upon a statement from Elwood, that The News had proposed the public-school subscription dea, that we have done nothing of the kind. The Franklin Democrat, which we quote elsewhere, correctly puts it when it refers to County Superintendent Hendricks (of Johnson county) as instituting what is thought to be the initial move in this matter. We do not, indeed, know whether it was Deputy Secretary Ellis or County Superintendent Hendricks who first suggested it. It was the latter, at it into practice. The News is not its author nor sponsor. The News has not undertaken to say how subscriptions shall be raised for this For itself it has simply asked the public at large to subscribe and has asked individuals to subscribe. We are the Poor Association of Baltimore, and concerned for the honor of Indiana in the same plan of benevolence will be this, and we be, papers like the Elwood Call to be likewise concerned and expend some energy in helping to raise the subscription instead of criticising those who engage in the work. The Elwood paper says there ought to be enough patriotic citizens and office-holders to raise the office-holders? We go with it as to patriotic citizens. How much shall we put down the Elwood Call for?

Our trade relations with Germany can not be said to be satisfactory at the present time to either country. So long, however, as they are satisfactory to the United States Senate, as they evidently are, it is not probable that anything will be done to relieve the situation. An attempt was made the other day to get the discriminating duty on German sugar repealed. The bill repealing it had already pased the House, and the Senate was asked to concur in this action. It refused. And the result is that our exports of cattle and cotton-seed oil to Germany are practically forbidden an er trance into that country. How much further we are to be punished for the

But there are signs that the administration proposes to take a hand in the retaliation business. As things stand today, it is only fair to consider German discrimination against American beef and oil and a few other things as an offset to American discrimination against German sugar. But if there is any fresh "attack" upon our commerce, it is said that the administration will find a way to retaliate. All of which is very foolish.

When we discriminate against German sugar, we hurt not only Germany, but ourselves. This is even more true of Germany when she refuses to take our cattle. And yet it is proposed to continue the same spiteful policy, each nation apparently hoping that by so doing it can force concessions from the other. The logical conclusion is the suspension of all trade relations. And this is the nineteenth century, and Germany and the United States are two of the most enlightened nations in the world!

What is true of our relations with Germany is true also of our relations with Spain. The latter power is doing what she can to keep American products out of Cuba, in order to punish the United States for abandoning the policy of reciprocity. And now it is proposed to retaliate upon Spain, the American minister at Madrid having been instructed to notify the Spanish Minister for Foreign Affairs that if his government persisted in exacting discriminating duties upon American imports into Cuba, the President would feel compelled to look upon such action as inviting the exercise by him of the power of retaliation conferred upon him by the act of 1890. Perhaps trade can be divided in this way, but the expedient seems a desperate one; and certainly it is one that should be sparingly

There is certainly no lack of variety in the foreign news which reaches this country. Yesterday a wild story came from Jamaica to the effect that Great Britain was about to restore King Clarence to power in the Mosquito strip of Nicaragua. To-day, by way of Washington, omes another story to the effect that the Mosquito Indians had formally incorporated their reservation as part of Nicwas at last terminated.

Just now it does not seem likely that the new year will find the world at peace. The "Yellow War" is still dragging on, and with so strong a tide of success on the Japanese side that its incidents are not of much interest. The Italian soldiers are kept busy looking after their territory in northeast Africa, where the capture of Kassala last summer did not have the effect of subduing the Mahdists. In Madagascar the Hova affair hangs on and seems to be difficult to settle. In South America the revolution in Peru appears formidable, and in Central America there is hardly a time when there is not trouble of some sort, local or between the little republics.

"Fantasma" at English's-The Attractions Elsewhere.

Lovers of the spectacular can find full gratification in "Fantasma," which was presented at English's Opera House last night. The scenery is beautiful and equipped with about all the devices known to stagecraft. The abduction of a beautiful girl by Zamaliel, king of the realm of Hades, and her rescue by Fantasma, the fairy queen, is the thread which unites the various parts. Elsie Irving assumes the latter character. Pico, the faithful, who is always in trouble, gives a funny touch to the whole. In this character George Adams showed himself as an adept in pantomimic art. The weird, uncanny and mysterious pervades the entire production. All kinds of creatures appear from their caverns in the depths of the sea, doors open and close without the intervention open and close without the intervention of human hands, people disappear and reappear with mysterious suddenness, and inanimate objects dance about and tricl Pico with a relishing mailiciousness. Not much can be said of the "fight show," as Bob Fitzsimmons's company at the Empire this week is called. The best feature is W. E. The Fitzgibbons (two boys and two girls) made a pleasing part of the entertainment.
The best part of the show, of course, is

"Blacklisted," a melodrama, with la-bor troubles as a text, was given a first performance in this city at the Park Theater, yesterday afternoon. In the first act there is a similarity of plot to "The Lost Paradise," which the author claims is probably due to the fact that the inspiration for both plays was drawn from the same source. There are two strong characters well portrayed in the cast-Mr. J. R. Armstrong, the old father, chairman of the strike commit-tee, and Mr. Ernest Allen as Frank Lynton, foreman of the mill. The McQueston country house at Marblehead Neck, Mass, was lighted during the summer by electricity generated by a windmill used in connection with storage batteries. The plant cost about $1,500, and it is said that not once during the summer was there a failure of light because of low wind. In cities, where space is valuable, stables are now built upward, as well as buildings designed for human occupancy. In such establishments horses are never stabled on the ground floor, which is reserved mainly for vehicles, but in the basement or on a second floor, which are reached by runways. Such modern stables are provided with steam elevators, upon which carriages may be taken to and from the ground floor.

Street Cars and Crossings. To the Editor of The Indianapolis News. Permit a patron of the street railway ines to protest against the recent change crossings in the alighting and embarking of passengers. The company only sought its own convenience in making this change. Were the city over-erowded with population, the argument might avail that it was done to relieve traffic. The real reason is, a majority of the other relieve traffic. the street railway junctions are on the "near" crossings, and it is to avoid stopping twice, and not because of the convenience of passengers, that this change which has thrown the whole city into confusion was made. Granted that Washington street is overcrowded, more ore important. Under the old rule the more important. Under the old rule the car platform stopped within a few feet of the crossings. Now, the front platform comes inside the near crossing, so that passengers must tramp through the mud the whole length of the car, before being able to embark. Wherever the "junctions" are located, then the front platform is brought to a halt so that the motorman can throw the switch, and if a passenger is successful in alighting within twenty feet of the crossing, he is fortunate. There are scores of these annoyances which might be named. On the outside streets they are numerous enough to be painful.

Take College avenue, for instance. At Christian avenue, going north, if the woman is nimble-footed she can bound from the platform to the sidewalk; if not, then she must step into a gutter, which is never dry, rain or shine, owing to a leaky main. Coming south on the avenue, at Seventh street a woman must dispute with a water fountain and the teams usually watering there to reach the platform. At the intersection of Massachusetts avenue, coming south, a woman can not reach the car without wadding through a muddy gutter. The employes recognize this, and so the car is stopped directly across the footwalk. That is a busy corner, and pedestrians have to wait until the car is ready to move before they can resume their journey. Other instances can be given, if need be, showing that the new rule is nothing but an annoyance, devised purely for the convenience of the company, and without regard to the comfort or convenience of patrons. I say nothing of Cherry and Vine streets, where the cars are stopped directly in the center of the street, effectually blockading traffic for the time being, because the muddy condition of the Massachusetts avenue extension would lead to riot were the "near" rule enforced.

But who will be the first to act? Rich But who will be the first to act? Richmond has great pride in her public schools—and justly—and it would certainly be an honor to take the lead in this matter. What teacher will be the first to start the idea? What room will make the first offering? There will be some honor in that—Richmond Register. The subscription that is being taken up by The Indianapolis News, for the purpose of presenting a library and a service of silver for banqueting purposes to the battleship Indiana, is not being made up as fast as is desirable. It will be much to our State's discredit if the object be not fully and liberally accomplished.—Evansville Journal.

The public at large does not indorse the idea of The Indianapols News, of soliciting pennies from the school children of the State to assist in raising $8,000 to buy a silver service for this new battleshi Indiana. This State ought to have patri otic citizens and office-holders enough to raise the required amount within twen-ty-four hours.—Elwood Call-Leader. County Superintendent Hendricks has instituted what is thought to be the initial move in interesting the school children of Johnson county in furnishing the new battleship Indiana with a library. The school children of the county will be requested to make contributions in any requested to make contributions in any sum of money, which will be devoted to a library fund for that ship. The plan originated with Mr. Hendricks and will no doubt be taken up by the schools of other counties.—Franklin Democrat. other counties.—Franklin Democrat.

The great battleship Indiana is nearing completion, and will be launched next year. It certainly seems that loyal Indianians should place some testimonial of acknowledgment of the honor extended to them in christening this mighty vessel. Not to do so will give an impression of shabbiness and indifference on the part of the people of the State. Other States and cities have so universally tendered some token of appreciation in events of some token of appreciation in events of this kind that it has come almost an esthis kind that it has come almost an es-tablished custom. Do we desire to have that mighty battleship, the pride of our navy, the observed of all nations, sail to foreign ports, receiving the naval and civic officials of all nations, and not a blessed thing by which the embarrassed officers can demonstrate that Indiana is not the only State in the Union that has failed to confer a christening pres-ent?

The subject was first taken up, as the readers all know, by The Indianapolis News, the most public-spirited organ in our State. It sought to raise an amount for this purpose by popular subscription, but it has been some time since the subject was first taken up, and so far only about $1,500 has been raised. It was suggested that the testimonial should consist of a silver service to cost about $8,000, a very silver service to cost about $8,000, a very appropriate gift, certainly. This matter ought to be attended to at once. Indianians, do not forget your State pride utterly. Since the matter of subscriptions seems to be sort of a drag, it has been suggested that the schools make a contribution for this purpose. There are between 500,000 and 800,000 school children in Indiana, and something near $5,000 would be realized on a collection of 1 cent each from the pupils of our public schools. There could be no more fitting thing than that children of the Indiana schools should be taught a lesson of loyality and patriotism, and at the same time hold up an example to the schools of other States. We believe the suggestion a most excellent one. silver service to cost about $8,000, a ver-of other States. We believe the suggestion a most excellent one.

The new battleship Indiana will soon be launched and the citizens of this great State owe it to themselves to see that some suitable gift is placed on board, so that wherever that monster of warmay go it will more thoroughly advertise the name and fame of our commonwealth. Bartleships that have been named after other States or cities have received appropriate testimonials, and Indiana should not be behind in the procession. If a crying, charming, boohooing and beautiful babe is named in one's honor it is customary to give it a suitable present, and surely if the authorities have done Indiana the honor to name one of the greatest battleships of modern times in her honor, our people should apply the time-honored custom of showing their appreciation in a substantial way. This should not be done by legislation, but by the free-will offering of the people. The Indianapolis News has started a popular subscription, and already the returns are most gratifying. The plan is to raise by popular subscription about $3,000, which amount will be spent for a silver service annopriately engraved with amblems typical of Indiana's interests.—Bloomington World.

Lafayette Courier.

An investigation of the city administration at Indianapolis is developing a rather unsavory condition of affairs, and the outlock indicates that the Republican party of the State at large will again be called upon to shoulder a large share of responsibility for the sins committed by a gang of selfish and dishonest political adventurers at the capital. They kept Indiana in the Democratic column for many years, and they are already in a fair way of destroying the good effects of the Republican victory achieved at the last election. The members of the ring are well known throughout the State, and their impudent aggressiveness in their efforts to control the party is equally well understood. The investigation in progress ought to be pushed until every rascal is branded with public condemnation. The people will indorse the puritying process, and the Republican party will be the gainer in the end.

STATE UNIVERSITY REMOVAL. In Favor of Removal.

In Favor of Removal.

Lebanon Patriot.

Every year Boone county sends dozens of young men and women to various schools within and without the State at an expense to the parents of thousands of dollars. Though Boone county pays yearly toward the expense of Indiana University probably more than one thousand dollars, yet she is practically denied, by the physical inaccessibility of this institution, the benefits which she, in common with all the other counties of the State, has paid to receive. Back in the forties, when men thought that Bloomington was destined to become one of the great centers of the commonwealth, wisdom seemed to point it as a desirable location for a seat of learning. But fifty years has brought forth the unforseen. Bloomington and Monroe county, next to the sister county of Brown, is the most inaccessible point in the State, with but one railroad and two passenger trains daily; with a small population, offering none of the advantages of libraries, hospitals, law courts, legislative assemblies and the many modern essentials as a real university community. Bloomington should, in all reason, be turned into the seat of some other State institution not requiring the special conditions of a seat of learning, and this university, if it is to be maintained at public expense, must be placed at the common center of the State. Boone county's interest, like that of four-fifths of the other counties, is plainly for this removal. It will bring the best faculty of the State almost to our doors, and the removal will induce the Legislature to make our university equal in influence and in strength to the State University of Michigan, Wisconsin, Nebraska and the many younger States which have long since passed us in the field of higher learning. Boone votes "Aye!"

A Rumor As To Consolidation.

Lafayette Courier. The Courier can not be induced to be-ieve that The News would purposely give aid to a surreptitious movement having n view the consolidation of all the State educational institutions at Indianapolis, educational institutions at Indianapolis, but we are in possession of convincing evidence that such a result is the one that is intended to be ultimately accomplished by the ambitious gentlemen who are now engaged in a systematic campaign for the purpose of bringing about the removal of the State University. The pretense is that that institution is the only one the Indianapolis cabal is desirous of obtaining, but, unless we are sadly misinformed, that is designed to serve only as an entering wedge—Purdue and the Normal School at Terre Haute to be added in turn as circumstances are most auspicious. If The at Terre Haute to be added in turn as circumstances are most auspicious. If The News is fully advised of the truth of the situation, it will hardly risk its reputation for veracity by entering a denial to these allegations. The ambition of the Indianapolis gentlemen to establish a "second Ann Arbor" (as they are pleased to designate it), at the State capital is not unworthy of them, but we insist that it must not be done by robbing other sections of the commonwealth of their vested rights. Furthermore, the agitation will prove futile, so far as the removal of any one of the institutions is concerned, and, in addition to being profitiess to the originators of the scheme, it is well calculated to emphasize the provincial preand, in addition to being profitless to the originators of the scheme, it is well calculated to emphasize the provincial prejudice against indianapolis that already exists. It is deplorable that there should be any inharmonious relations of sections, and it is evident that conditions are such that intelligent effort should be exerted in behalf of closer fellowship rather than in the direction of selfish aims that can only result in further extrangement without result in further estrangement, without profit to any one.

Not For the Capital.

Delphi Journal.

It seems certain that an attempt will be made at the coming session of the Legislature to have a bill passed providing for the removal of the State University from Bloomington to Indianapolis. Certain individuals in Indianapolis are working hard to this end. The Journal is proud of the State capital, and would like to see it a recognized center of wealth and learning, but there are other localities in this State that have rights that should be respected. There is no more reason why this institution should be moved to Indianapolis than for the removal of all other State institutions to that place. Indianapolis is a very small part of the State of Indiana, and all that belongs to the State does not belong to Indianapolis by a big sight. And that Indianapolis wants it all, is not creditable to her. There might be some good reason for the removal of the State University to Lafayette, where it could be combined with Purdue, but there is no good reason why it should be taken to Indianapolis.

Voice of the Opposition.

Bloomington Telephone.

It is not reasonable to expect that, with such a fight on hands in the coming Legislature, which will result in two factions that the financial support of the institution will be cared for. So, we say, this phase of the question is well calculated to create alarm, and those who are more interested in the university than in removal should pause to consider.

To any one who has carefully looked over the ground, it is already apparent that removal is a gigantic task to which a very large element of the State will be bitterly opposed. Southern Indiana and the districts about Terre Haute and Lafayette will stand solid against such a scheme, and if such a fight is to be made, it will be long and bitter—more likely to result in permanent injury to the institution than in its removal. Monroe county and Bloomington also have large interests by way of vested rights because of legislative and financial acts, that are to come within the discussion.

Commends the Movement. Rensselaer Republican.

Rensselaer Republican.

The question of moving the State University from its present location at Bloomington to Indianapolis is receiving quite a little attention in different parts of the State. The teachers of the county, through the resolutions adopted at their meeting last week, expressed themselves in favor of the proposed change. * * Thus it would seem that there should be little hesitancy on the part of the Legislature in making the change. A great thing will have been done for the cause of higher education in Indiana, if the change is made.

Wants It To Perish.

Marion Chronicle.

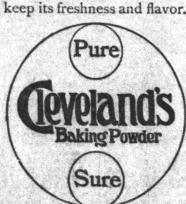

The Indianapolis papers are discussing the feasibility of removing the Bloomington State school to Indianapolis. They agree that the school as now conducted is a failure. This is a concession that the Legislature can profitably heed. The Chronicle has always insisted that this alleged "university" is a fraud, and is only sustained by misrepresentation and persistent legislative lobbying. The State should promptly withdraw its assistance and allow this antiquated concern to collapse.

The extraordinary receipts of wheat in linneapolis and at the head of the lake much comment. The arrivals to this time in the season were they came from the remainder of te crop of 1891 added to the full crop 1892. Receipts at the head of the lake ere larger in both 1891 and 1892 than this season, but not in Minneapolis. From the crop of 1891 Duluth had received up to this time almost 30,000,000 bushels, while Minneapolis had received nearly $1,000,000 bushels. At the same time in 1892, Duluth had received 25,000,000 bushels and Minneapolis 34,500,000 bushels,
This year, since August 1, Minneapolis has received 31,500,000 bushels, Duluth 23,000,000 bushels, making a decrease this year below 1892 of some 5,000,000 bushels, and a decrease of about 6,000,000 bushels
below the crop of 1891. That is, the receipts of the two places in both 1891 and u, but not in Minneapolis. From were larger than the receipts of 1894 oth points. The queer thing about it is year that nearly all is drawn from there were three States to draw from Another feature is that in 1891 was the extraordinary crop of the Northwest, which was not all marketed by August, the remainder assisting to swell the movement in the fall of 1892. This season the movement from the country was and the movement from the country was rawn up closer than usual, so that it as been since August 1, principally aken from the production of this season and from two States—Minnesota and forth Dakota. Last year the movement this time at Minneapolis, Duluth and uperior combined was but little morehan 46,000,000 bushels, against 54,000,000 ushels this season, and proves beyond doubt that the Government figres of condition for Minnesota and North Dakota were further stray than usual. From the large eccepts this season 5,000,000 bushels more ave gone by the lake route than last ear, leaving some 2,000,000 bushels less the head of the lake. Although relepts have been large, the demand has een unusually active, and remains so et. The following is Kingan & Co.'s price list:

Exports of Gold. Roston Commercial Bulletin.

The gold engagements last week were about what was anticipated. The two and a haif millons which were engaged by Thursday afternoon were fully justified by the market for exchange. They showed I legitimate commercial profit, rates being how up to the point at which shipments of gold are cheaper than purchased remittance of bankers' bills. One incident, somewhat amusing in connection with mittance of bankers' bills. One incident, somewhat amusing, in connection with the export of the week, was the complaint of the gold exporting houses that the Treasurer was not giving them full weight coin in exchange for notes. The accusation was true, but it happened that the slightly abraded coin paid out by the Treasury to banks of the gold exporters was the very coin received last month from the city banks, in subscription for the new Government 5 per cents. When, therefore, the Fourth National Bank people grumbled over their ill-treatment, they were laughed at. It is perfectly proper that gold exporters should insist that there be no discrimination against them in Government note redemption. But to ask the sub-Treasury officers to get down on their hands and knees and pick out the best and heaviest coins for the exporters' personal convenience is a little more than even the sternest martinet could do.

More Reciprocity. Minneapolls Market Record, December 15. There is considerable talk among mil-

There is considerable talk among millers concerning the measure that is to be placed before Congress to enter into negotiations with France for the purpose of opening her ports to American flour. The idea is to bring about this result through conditions of reciprocity.

Millers are very favorable to this idea as they realize that something should be done to extend the markets for their products. At present considerable American wheat is imported by France and there mixed with the soft wheat from other countries, ground and shipped to Liverpool, there to be placed on sale in competition with the goods manufactured here. In giancing at the map of the world one finds that the wheat fields are farther from the coast in this country than in any other. The sea route to Liverpool is less than most of the other countries. So it is quite evident that if this country intends to ship much abroad, rates of transportation to the coast should be reduced to a minimum:

Trade Nates.

Trade Notes.

Farmers in the neighborhood of Indianapolis are taking advantage of the fine weather and good roads to bring in hay and corn. On the hay market at 11 p'clock to-day there were between thirty and thirty-five loads of hay, and forty wagon-loads of corn, with more coming in. Wagon hay of excellent quality is selling at $56.50 a ton, corn at 379.40c a bushel at this market.

Shippers are still paying 18c a dozen for fresh eggs. Turkeys are quoted at 6c.

The Injunction Not Granted - The Case In the Police Court. In the injunction suit of Dr. J. M. Gaston against the city, to prevent the build-ing inspector and the Board of Public Safety from prosecuting him for not erecting a fire escape on the building at Delaware and Ohio streets, where the Delaware and Ohio streets, where the School Board has temporarily placed several high-school grades, Judge Harvey this morning held in favor of the defendants. Judge Harvey said that he could not restrain a criminal court from trying a case where the guilt or innocence of a person was involved. Dr. Gaston feared that a number of complaints would be filed against him, as by the ordinance each day constituted a separate offense.

In the Police Court the defense was that it was the duty of the School Board to put up the fire escape, and that the ordinance required fire escapes to be placed on school buildings. It was an oversight in drafting the ordinance that school buildings were not mentioned. Judge Stubbs took the case under advisement till in the morning.

The Caucus To Be Merely An Exchange of Views-Finance Committee-Pay of the Militia-The Apportionment.

The Republican Senators who were in vited to come here to-day and discuss measures with which the principal comnittees of the Senate will have to deal were slow in arriving. At noon only twelve had reported at the Denison House, where the committees were to meet. They expressed the opinion that there would not be much work done at this caucus. There is a sentiment among some of the Senators that there ought not to be too much haste in agreeing on legislation in Senate committee meetings. Senators who express this opinion 3ay they believe the minority members of the committees and the members of the committees which will be appointed by the Speaker of the House ought to be consulted before it is agreed to do this or that thing.

In the informal talks among the Senators it was understood that this caucus of members of the committees is not for the purpose of definitely agreeing upon any measures that are to be presented. One of the Senators said: "We simply wish to talk matters over—exchange views on subjects that will come up for consideration at the session."

A majority of the Republican members of the finance committee are here, and Chairman Haggard said he hoped to get the Senators together and have a little talk late in the day. The members of this committee are all in favor of the General Assembly taking hold of the financial questions early in the session. Senator Haggard believes the Republicans ought to profit by the experience of Senator Haggard believes the Republicans ought to profit by the experience of the Democrats in the last session. The general appropriation bill was reported so late at that session that there was little time to discuss it, and it went through—an imperfect measure.

The members of the Senate committee on finance will co-operate with the House committee on ways and means in an effort to get the appropriation bill out of the way before the session has far advanced. It has been suggested that the general appropriation bill should be prepared before the General Assembly meets, and this will probably be done if the information needed can be got together by the men who will undertake to frame the bill.

There will be no difficulty, it is be lieved, in convincing the Senate commit toe on finance that the expenses to which Governor Matthews put the State by call ing out the militia during the miners: strike and the railroad strike this year should be paid by the General Assembly. It is probable that a special bill appropriating the amount needed will be passed early in the session.

Chairman Boyd, of the committee behevolent institutions, has been here since yesterday. He has talked with a good many persons who have suggestions to make to the committee. It is probable that this committee will not formulate a policy before the House committee on benevolent institutions is

There was not a majority of the Republican members of either the legislative apportionment committee or the congressional apportionment committee present at noon. It seems to be agreed that Senators who have ideas as to what kind of apportionment shall be made shall go ahead and prepare bills to be submitted to a joint caucus of the House and Senate committees after the General Assembly has convened. James E. Watson, of the Fourth district, was the only Congressman-elect who was here, and he was here by accident, it was averred. He is anxious to have the Fourth district so changed as to make the election of a Republican two years from now sure. There was not a majority of the Re

The Senators, who come to the city to talk of legislation, are so constantly haunted by seekers after office that they do not get much time to talk of the affairs which bring them here. There are about one hundred persons who are account of the second property of the second property who are account of the second persons who are accoun about one hundred persons who are ac-tively seeking places about the General Assembly, and every time there is a meeting of Senators here many of these There are six principal, effices to be filled. These are, for the Senate—Principal secretary, assistant secretary and door-keeper; House, Principal clerk, assistant clerk and principal door-keeper. The party machine seems to favor clerk and principal door-keeper. The party machine seems to favor R. A. Brown, of Franklin, for principal clerk of the House, and R. B. Oglesbee, of Plymouth, as principal secretary of the Senate. Both Senators and Representatives, it is said, have refrained from making promises to candidates, and persons who are acquainted with the facts, say that no one will go into a caucus say that no one will go into a caucus say that no one will go into a caucus with enough strength to nominate.

The impression that J. C. Adams, of this city, will be made Speaker is growing stronger day by day. Senators report that there seems to be a feeling through out the State that Mr. Adams is the best Secretary Bicknell, of the State Board or Charities, has put into the hands of the committee on benevolent institutions a bill providing for the establishment of a State school for orphans, similar to that in Michigan. Senator Wishard has agreed to champion the bill, which has been favorably received by the Senators who have looked it over. The State Board of Charities believes that such an institution would mean a great saving of money, and a great saving of men and women. On a leaflet printed by the State Board of Charities for circulation among the Senators and Representatives are set out some figures showing the need of such a school. It is shown that there are in Indiana at this time 1,800 homeless and destitute children supported by public textation. Secretary Bicknell, of the State Board and destitute children supported by public taxation. Under the new law in Michigan the number of the same class has been reduced to 300; Indiana's system cost the tax-payers of the State in 1894 $175,000, while the Michigan system cost that State but $45,000.

TO FEAST WITH GOD

Dr. Chapman Invites His Hearers-Parable of the Feast.

The attendance at last hight's Chapman meeting at Temlinson Hall was unusually large for a Monday night. The cheir seemed in better voice than at any previous time. The Rev. Dr. Carter, of Lafayette, led the congregation in prayer, and afterward Mr. Sunday prayed. Dr. Chapman's taxt was the parable of the man who gave a feast and invited his neighbors. They gave various excuses for not attending and the man sent his servants out to search the highways for servants out to search the highways for guests, and when he had filled his table he feasted with the beggars and the poor. The parable pictured the searching mercy of God and the way of men even when asked to profess His faith, to offer excuses for not being Christians. It was as ber 46c, May 467464c. July 464c. Oats—many have been called when not expecting the call, and how many will be unprepared for it! Daily the invitations to feast with God reach you, but the attraction of sin causes you to make meaningles excuses and fly from Him. I am as the servant of the man in the parable who gave the feast. I am calling you to His festal board, and many of you have answered with the meaningless excuses of which I have spoken."

The speaker urged the literal acceptance of the invitation, which was the literal acceptance of Christ.

Charges Agninst Patrolmen.

W. G. Robinson, of 514 Virginia avenue, this morning filed charges against pa-troiman Asch. He says that he had a controversy with a Mrs. Schue over the ownership of a stand; that Asch was called in, stood by and allowed the woman to assault him, and refused to give him protection when he asked for it. When protection when he asked for it. When he complained to the officer, Robinson says that Asch abused him, and called him hard names and threatened to break his head. Abch denies the statement.

A saloon-keeper filed charges against patrolman Lannes, charging him with "playing" a nickel-in-the-slot machine and doing other things. It developed that the saloon man was mad at the officer, and was trying to get him discharged. The superintendent will recommend to the commissioners that the charges against the officer be dismissed.

To him has already been allowed $3,500 on the supervisor's estimates. The abuttments and piers of the First street bridge are completed, and the county commissioners have allowed W. W. Winslow, the agent of the contracting company, $10,000 on account.

Attorneys say the acceptance of money on account involves as much peril to the contractors as the prosecution of work, should the court hold that the contracts were illegally let. If the court should so hold, the companies could be made, by suit, to return the allowances. tion."
"I hadn't heard that I was to resign," said President Wildman, "and I know of no reason why I should. Street Commissioner Fisher said: "I stid yesterday that if I had a position in which I could make a respectable living that I would resign to avoid the annoyances to which I have been subjected since this investigation started. No special reason for the act was known by his wife. Yesterday he took a load of hay the city, and returned with the cross only. He told Mr. Bowser that he had failed to sell the hay and left it, while to his wife he said that he had sold it for $9, and had lost part of had sold it for $9, and had lost part of the money. This morning at breakfast he seemed depressed, and his wife, fol-lowing him to the barn soon after, found him hanging from a beam by a small clothes-line. He had mounted a large basket to reach the noose, then kicked the basket away, but sank sufficiently to be partly supported on the floor. The empty hay wagon was subsequently found in Pleasant run, where crossed by the Michigan road.

Smith has been in the neighborhood for two years, and is regarded as a good man, not dissipated in habits.

hospitals in Indiana met this afternoon at the Capitol, with a committee of the State Board of Charities and a com-mittee of legislators. The State board had invited the superintendents to pre-pare views touching needed changes in the insanity laws. Some legislation this the insanity laws. Some legislation this winter is hoped for. Some of the members of the State board are of the opinion that it is possible under the present laws to commit a sane person to the hospital. It has been suggested that a judge of a court should be added to insanity commissions. If not this, some other remedy is believed to be advisable. It has also been suggested that a penalty be provided for sheriffs who violate the provisions of the law which require that the sheriff provide a woman to accompany every female patient en route to the insane hospital. A female associate for a discharged woman returning home is also suggested.

Sut Against Wiener Dismissed. against Jacob Wiener, was dismissed in Police Court this morning. The attorneys for the firm that caused the issuance of the warrant say that an injustice has been done Wiener, as they found on fully investigating the case. It is asserted that Wiener did not buy the goods, as that Wiener did not huy the goods, as charged, but was in New York at the time the goods were bought by Mrs. Newgarden. Wiener is the brother of Mrs. Newgarden, and was arrested on the charge that he had, made fraudulent statements in order to buy the goods. The case was dismissed at the request of the prosecuting witnesses. Wiener was asked not to bring suit for damages. It is asserted that a settlement of the affairs of Mrs. Newgarden is in progress, and that it will suit all the creditors.

Constable Whitesell's Experience. Constables Cook, Arthur Whitesell, Sorters, Petty and Huston went to place Charles Hyde, who lives in Cook street, under arrest. They surrounded the house, and Whitesell and Sorters went to the rear. Suddenly Whitesell disappeared as rear. Suddenly Whitesell disappeared as if the earth had swallowed him. Presently he was found in an open cistern, waist deep in the water, hatless and holding four silver dollars high above his head. Whitesell was wet from head to foot, and had to walk down town hatless. To-day he is confined to his bed, and his physician regards his infuries, of an internal nature, more serious than at first supposed. Hyde was not arrived. The other constables say he was not at home.

Capitol Custodian's Report. Capitol Custodian's Report.

The annual report of Timothy Griffin, custodian of the State House, has been filed with the Governor. Its principal points relate to the use of appropristions for keeping the Capitol in order. The new roof cost $16.745.11. This was less than the amount appropriated by $1,254.89, which the custodian turned back into the treasury. He also had $56 left out of the $11,000 given him for employes, and a balance of $428.25 out of $2,071.25 he had to pay for water, but the appropriation for lights $2,500 was not enough, and he will ask the next Legislature for $1,600 more for that purpose.

Of course there are always trimmings in plenty for those who will have them. There are dull jets and huge crepe sleeves and rustling armure silks, but plainness, easy flowing lines, and soft retiring textures are the points that now distinguish the most correct black.

In wools for street as well as house wear, crepon, grained or crinkley, is a favorite and dressy material.

One very rich design in it—and an expensive one—has over its frosty weave, which is as heavy as a summer blanket, large raised blots that might almost be likened to tears. Another quite as solid is woven in dull grains, and this is likewise for street wear. The crinkled pattern is preferred for house use, and is often as light and fragile as veiling, and in this weight affords most gracious possibilities for draping.

Other wools that are always permissible for mourning, are the priestly henricitas, serges, diagonals, and figures and flowery novelties.

"He explained that the furniture displayed here was made by hand and treated to a battering process that gave it the appearance of age and wear. He said they sold it for just exactly what it was, but that he had no doubt that many customers palmed it off on their visitors as furniture that had been handed down to them from colonial times. (Excuse me, did clubs lead? I thought it was a heart.)

"Some of them, he said, requested that their purchases be carefully covered up when delivered at their residences (I pass) and others even went so far as to have the articles boxed and delivered by an express company. So far as the manufacture of the articles in this room was concerned, the deception was complete.

A UNIQUE SOUVENIR

Besides furnishing this handsome and valuable work we are also prepared to make a free gift of as unique a little book as was ever published.

Just at the time the remains of Napoleon Borraparte were taken from St. Helena to Paris to be buried in that city, Thackeray, the now famous English author, chanced to be there. It was, in all probability, the largest funeral in the world and the services were deeply impressive. Thackeray, then an unknown author, carefully noted everything in connection with the event and shortly after wrote an account of what he saw. At that time neither "Vanity Fair," "The Newcombs," nor "Pendennis" had been given the world, and Thackeray did not have the reputation those popular works have since accorded him. Only a few copies were printed and fewer sold. Later, however, when the author had achieved same, there grew a demand for his early work—the story of Napoleon's second funeral. The plates had all been destroyed or lost and only some half dozen copies could be found. These were at once seized upon by the collectors, who paid extravagant prices for them.

By great good fortune of the publishers of this new Napoleon work, we can offer our patrons one of these unique curiosities. This has been reproduced in facsimile. The cover, type and binding are exact copies of the original. This will make a valuable souvenir, and it is the intention of THE NEWS to give free one copy to every one who purchases the entire sixteen Parts of "Napoleon From Corsica to St. Helena."

It you are not now a regular subscriber of THE INDIAN-APOLIS NEWS, leave your order at THE NEWS office.

All regular agents of The Indianapolis News in towns worth $5.50. throughout the State will also receive subscriptions for THE NEWS and orders for the Napoleonic History, sample copies of which they have. fembers of the Firm Deny the Charges Made Against Them-Mr. Brown Thinks an Attempt Was Made to Bribe Him.

The witnesses before the Council invesigating committee yesterday afternoon were Stewart & Carter, stone dealers, of Kokomo. Mr. Stewart was the first witness. Several times Mr. Merritt had to tell him that he was wasting time by making explanations of matters in which the committee was not interested. He Mr. Stewart denied that he had any agent here in the person of a city official, or ever had had one, or that he or his firm had ever paid any city official commistractors. He said that he came here to see if he could sell stone to the city. He knew Mr. Wildman, of the Board of Public Works, and called on him and explained his business. Mr. Wildman told him that the proper person to see was Mr. Fisher, and while they were talking Fisher came along and was introduced by Mr. Wildman. Mr. Stewart detailed at some length his efforts to sell stone to the city, and gave the prices that he had offered Mr. Fisher. He also told of an attempt on the part of stone dealers at Greensburg, Logansport and other places to form a pool and keep the prices of stone up to at least $1.25 a yard, but Stewart & Carter refused to go into the combination, and the pool was broken.

Per Cents. For Stone. Per Cents. For Stone.

In explanation of his letter to Humphreys & Bash, in which he said that his firm would take care of the per cents.

Mr. Stewart explained that the per cent. was not to go to the street commissioner, but to one of the county commissioners for stone that the county would buy. He said that the stone was would buy. He said that the stone was never sold, and the per cent. was never paid. He repeated that he had never paid any commissions to any official and denied the stories told Saturday by Humphreys & Bash. He said that when city engineer Brown visited the Kokomo quarries that he (Brown) went at his own expense, and that the firm of Stewart & Carter did not pay his bills. He had never told Mr. Brown that he could sell the stone at $1.03, and have a good profit, and as the city was paying $1.03 there was 5 cents that he did not care for.

Mr. Stewart said that he did say that he could approach Mr. Wildman, but he did not mean that he could approach him in a corrupt manner. He denied having various meetings with Mr. Wildman, and said that he had never been in the office of Fulmer, Selbert & Co., with Mr. Fisher.

J. H. Carter, the other member of the J. H. Carter, the other member of the firm, told about the same story as Mr. Stewart. Mr. Carter said that he knew very little about the business, as he had been sick all summer. The books did not show that any commissions had been paid to any one. Mr. Stewart said that commissions had been paid to Humphreys and Bash. Mr. Allen said that it looked as if Mr. Carter knew little about his books. Mr. Carter was on the stand but a short time.

Thought If An Attempt To Bribe.

Thought It An Attempt To Bribe. City Engineer Brown testified that when he was at Kokomo, visiting the when he was at Kokomo, visiting the quarries of Stewart & Carter, Mr. Stewart had made statements that led him to think it was an attempt to bribe him. At the hotel, Stewart said that he could sell the stone at $1.03 and make a good profit; that he was getting $1.03, and that profit; that he was getting $1.08, and that there was 5 cents that he did not care for.

Mr. Brown said that at first he did not pay much attention to the remark, but when it was repeated he thought Mr. Stewart was getting ready to bribe him, and he left the room.

Mr. Costello asked Mr. Brown who paid his expenses to Kokomo. The engineer said that Stewart & Carter had paid his railroad fare. He did not remember whether they gave him the money for a ticket or the ticket.

Mr. Brown said that a bribe had been
